

To the FCC,

I am opposed to the completion of proceeding 13-86. With respect to the mission and purpose of the FCC, I would like to encourage those who are willing and able to pursue righteousness and morality to dissolve this proceeding. I, in and of myself have no authority to direct the FCC to change what morality you may hold to, but as for my family and those who look to me for guidance and leadership, we will be refusing to watch programs that promote nudity and harsh language. To maintain my convictions to abstain from programs of this nature, we will watch only programs we know to be void of nudity and harsh language.

I personally have understood public television to be a representation of the most prudent level of a culture's tolerance of vices. If the programming is available to all, it would behoove the governing authorities to take a position of being above reproach in the content broadcast to the people, therefore, protecting the character and good name of the FCC.

Respectfully,

Van Williams
